Guy McLean, at 35, has won every major equestrian competition that would allow him to enter, at least once. He has won prestigious poetry awards while serenading thousands, but most importantly, he and his team of incredible horses have won the hearts and minds of millions of the general public on stages and in arenas across the nation in Royal Shows, at Outback Spectaculars, International Rodeos, State Exhibitions and countless special appearances both live and on television as well as major equestrian shows, such as Equitana Asia Pacific.

More than a horseman, Guy's entertainment act attracted such a huge following in his home state, that crowds of 30,000 would showed up chanting his name every night at the capital's oldest and largest state fairgrounds, the Brisbane Ekka. They demanded to see Guy and the stars of his troop, "Nugget, Spinnaby and Kenny," regular headliners in the evenings' entertainment of Fireworks, Monster Trucks or Racing Motorcycles, each time giving them emotional standing ovations that were minutes long.
